Last review 2020-08-25.Sitting down at the computer today to write, I was riveted by an article which I can't find on the main Google search, just the first hit. The article was on ABCnews about how US soldiers in Iraq were getting sick and dying at about twice the rate of the US national average. The conditions in Iraq are horrific. How could this possibly be? I looked around and realized that the soldiers are living at twice the rate of the rest of the world. I decided to look to see what that was. As it turns out, US citizens have average lifespan of 77 years, while Iraqis have one of 72. To put that in perspective, those 9 people die each day or 78 each hour. Now we can see how this could be possible. -Anwar Source: Is a point approachable from ∞? I need to prove that the set of all points approached by a circle from infinite distance (i.e., half circumference) is finite. In my book, they simply mentioned that the set of all points approached is

The invention is particularly applicable to the cleaning of optical glass. Prior art compositions and methods for cleaning optical articles include well known high pressure cleaning techniques such as those disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 3,170,986, and high pressure cleaning with a variety of solvents, such as alcohols, acetone, methanol, and chlorinated hydrocarbon, is disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 3,296,094. Other approaches to the problem include U.S. Pat. Nos. 3,847,734 and 3,823,906 wherein an optical lens or lens coatings are etched with solutions of concentrated acids, such as hydrochloric acid. U.S. Pat. No. 3,736,012 describes a method of treating an optical lens by first making a thin adhesive film of a polymerized, solvent-type urethane adhesive on the lens and then applying a solution of a wetting agent for the adhesive to the lens. U.S. Pat. Nos. 2,842,291 and 3,189,588 suggest processes in which glass fibers coated with a combination of solvent and polymer are subjected to high pressure fluid jets to clean and then polymerize the solvent coating. Various liquid cleaning solutions have been suggested. U.S. Pat. No 91bb86ccfa
